

GOOD FAITH ESTIMATE NOTICE

The federal “No Surprises Act” grants consumers the right to receive a “Good Faith Estimate” explaining how much their medical and mental health care will cost. Under the law, healthcare providers, including psychotherapists, must give clients who do not have insurance or who are not using insurance an estimate of the expected charges for treatment services.

The act also requires healthcare providers, to inform their clients of this right. Additionally, this act requires that information regarding the availability of a “Good Faith Estimate” must be prominently displayed on the website of all health care providers.

You have the right to receive a Good Faith Estimate for the total expected cost of any non-emergency healthcare services.

You can ask all your healthcare providers, for a Good Faith Estimate before you schedule a service.

If you receive a bill that is at least $400 more than your Good Faith Estimate, you can dispute the bill. Make sure to save a copy or picture of your Good Faith Estimate.
